Departments of Instruction.

I.—PREPARATORY AND ELECTIVE.

To obviate a difficulty experienced by Colleges in the imperfect preparation of Students, the Trustees have founded a Preparatory Department, extending through a course of two years. Before entering it, the student must have acquired a knowledge of the primary studies, including intellectual and practical Arithmetic, Modern Geography, the elements of English Grammar, &c.

For the benefit of such as do not intend to complete a Collegiate course, instruction is given in such branches as are requisite in practical business, and in preparation for teaching common schools, either by a selection of particular studies from the regular departments, or by the formation of special classes, as occasion may require.

The students in this department are under the immediate charge of the Professors of the College equally with those in the Collegiate course, and no effort will be spared to secure thoroughness and efficiency.

Satisfactory testimonials of good moral character are necessary to insure admission.

The sessions are the same as in the College.

II—COLLEGE.

In this department there are two distinct courses of instruction—the Classical and Scientific—each continuing through four years, open to both sexes; and when completed, entitling the student to the usual honorary degrees.

I.—CLASSICAL COURSE.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, in the Classical course, are examined in the following studies, viz:

English Grammar.

Descriptive and Physical Geography.

History of the United States.

Elements of Natural Philosophy.

III.—THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

The conditions of admission to the Theological Department are satisfactory evidence of Christian character, and such literary attainments as will, in the judgment of the Faculty, enable the party to study Theology to advantage.

The terms and vacations are the same as those of the College Department.

Those studies included in the Theological Course, which belong to the regular College Course, will be pursued in the College classes.

No charge will be made for tuition in the Theological Department.

The regular course of study occupies three years, and embraces the following subjects:

- The Inspiration of the Scriptures.
- History of the Sacred Canon.
- The Scriptures in their Original Languages.
- Biblical Interpretation.
- Systematic Theology.
- Mental and Moral Philosophy.
- Church History and Church Government.
- Sacred Rhetoric.
- Compositions and Extemporaneous Discussions.
- Composition and Delivery of Sermons.
- Duties of the Pastoral Office.

Those who are too far advanced in life, or who, from any other cause, cannot consistently pursue the full course, and who are adjudged to have a good degree of fitness for the work of the ministry, may be admitted to a shorter course by selecting from the above, under the direction of the Faculty, such studies as appear best adapted to promote their usefulness.

General Information.

TEACHERS' CLASS.

At the opening of the Fall Term each year, classes are formed for the instruction of such as are to be engaged in teaching, in which special attention is given to all those departments of study required to be taught in our public schools, accompanied by such exercises, through means of recitations, examinations, lectures, &c., as are adapted to give proficiency and skill in the art of teaching.

COMMERCIAL INSTRUCTION.

Instruction is given throughout the year in Penmanship, Book-keeping, and other subjects necessary to a good commercial education.

LADIES' COURSE.

The Trustees, believing that the demand of the age for the liberal education of ladies is right, and that the greatest degree of mental and moral power is secured to both by the joint education of the sexes, offer to ladies, as well as gentlemen, the most ample opportunity to secure a thorough college training, and to pass the curriculum of study through the regular classes and exercises to the honors of graduation.

MUSIC, PAINTING, ETC.

Special instruction is given to classes in Vocal and Instrumental Music, Painting, Drawing, &c.

RHETORICAL EXERCISES.

In addition to the recitations before specified, Compositions, Extemporaneous Speaking, and Declamation are made prominent objects of the student's attention. Regular classes are formed for instruction in Elocution, and each student, during the entire course, has assigned, weekly, or on alternate weeks, a special exercise in selected Declamations, or in original Essays or Orations.

LECTURES.

While nearly all the branches of study are taught from text-books, the Professors in the several departments will follow up the text-book instruction with full courses of Lectures on the various topics assigned to their respective departments, including subjects connected with Classical and Modern Literature, Mathematics and Astronomy, Chemistry and Geology, Natural Philosophy and Natural History, attended by ample experiments and demonstrations illustrative of the general reasoning in each science. Lectures on Mental and Moral Philosophy, Logic, Rhetoric and Political Economy, accompanied with such examinations and reviews as will most fully develop the mind of the student, and inspire the most ardent love and earnest research for true knowledge.

In addition to these, occasional Lectures will be delivered before all the students, having a direct bearing upon their characters and habits, and designed to promote order, decorum and an elevated standard of scholarship, as well as to furnish useful information on topics not strictly embraced in any of the departments.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of the second and third terms, there will be a thorough examination in each department of study, which will be so conducted as to make it an actual test of the amount and accuracy of the knowledge acquired by the student.

DEGREES.

The Degree of "Bachelor of Arts" is conferred upon students who complete the Classical Course, and pass the examinations in the same.

The Degree of "Bachelor of Science" is conferred upon students who complete the Scientific Course, and pass the examinations in the same.

The Master's Degree will be conferred upon graduates of three years' standing, who shall have sustained a good moral character subsequent to graduation, and who shall have engaged, during that period, in professional or in literary or scientific studies.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are connected with the College, two Literary Societies, the "STAR" and the "LAMBDA PHI," which hold regular meetings for Rhetorical and Literary exercises; affording to Students advantages for improvement in discussion, criticism, and Rhetorical studies.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Students are required to attend religious exercises every morning, and public worship twice on the Sabbath, in the College Chapel, unless excused by the Faculty, provided that by special arrangements, students may connect themselves with any one of the regular congregations of the place.

CABINET AND LIBRARY.

By the munificent donation of Prof. Kost, as stated in our last Catalogue, College has been furnished with an extensive Cabinet, including very large and valuable collections, especially in the departments of Geology, Mineralogy and Conchology.

The new Museum Building, designed for the reception and disposition of this large and general Collection will be completed by the time of the opening of the Fall Term of 1864.

To the donation above referred to, large additions have already been made, and still larger will hereafter be made by exchanges and purchases of rare specimens from Europe.

The apparatus of the College for Philosophical and Chemical purposes is being extended and improved, and the most earnest efforts are put forth to furnish students extended advantages in all that pertains to Natural History and Science.

A College Library, to which students have access, has been commenced, and is being steadily enlarged by valuable additions.

ENDOWMENT FUND.

From the sale of Scholarships, bequests and donations to the College, a Funded Capital of over Eighty Thousand Dollars, in addition to the buildings, has been secured, which will be increased until the original purpose of obtaining a liberal endowment is completed.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

The year is divided into three Terms and three Vacations. The first Term of twelve, the second of thirteen, and the third of fifteen weeks. The first and second Vacation of one week each, and the third or Summer Vacation of ten weeks.

In all the departments it is of great importance that students should enter at the beginning of the Term. All students are required to report themselves for registration upon arriving in town.
